Speaker Presentations:

After the training program, the students shared valuable feedback with me:

- The workshop on innovations is a great experience; learning about converting ideas into start-ups is an essential step towards realizing entrepreneurial ambitions.
- The students are getting out from the fear of expressing thoughts in public.
- They learned how to get their idea into a prototype or proof of concept.
- They have learned about success that comes eventually by being patient and confident in the product.
- They also understand that the product should be useful and have vast necessity in the market so that the start-ups can succeed.
- The start-up seminar was an incredible source of inspiration. The speaker's insightful discussions and success stories motivated to push boundaries and take risks.
- Finally, the speakers provided valuable insights and practical tips provided, which have equipped a lot of determination and a clear path towards success.
