

What is a Scribe?

Ascribe (also known as a 'Amanuensis') is a person who writes or types a student's dictated exam answers. Scribes must be conversant with the subject area and vocabulary, as well as having neat and legible handwriting, or be adept in word processing if using a computer.

Who is eligible to have a Scribe?

Students who have a disability that limits their ability to handwrite, type, or maintain the posture required for writing, or students who, as a result of their disability, deliver knowledge better orally rather than in writing, may require an amanuensis. A Personal Learning Support Plan should be created for each student (PLSP).
